

There is no limit to the number of individual FLATLITE lamps that can be connected together on a single power supply.

Lamps must be electrically connected in a parallel arrangement as shown in the examples below.

It is important to maintain a separation (via the scribe line) between each side of the lamp. All 'A' wires should be paired together and run to one Power Supply output lead and all 'B' wires to the other.

